GEOS launches its tracking service

GEOS enables clients to enhance security systems with a customized tracking solution

Optimize security levels for projects in high-risk environments

Building on new data transmission and GPS positioning technology, GEOS has launched a new service. This tailored GPS tracking service provides clients seeking to optimize the security of their business development programs in hostile environments with the perfect solution.

Intelligent cover for your employees

GEOS enables you to accompany your employees in high-risk zones via an 'intelligent' tracking system. The GEOS service can also be used via a Smartphone application. It is extremely easy to use and specifically adapted for business travellers and personnel on assignment abroad.

In addition to real-time monitoring on all types of terrain, made possible by the dual use of GSM/GPRS and GPS satellite technologies, GEOS allows you to relay specific information to your employees based on their exact requirements at any given time. A pushed alert system allows users to plan for and respond to a crisis situation to ensure real-time rapid response.

An ideal solution to track equipment

Using electronic consoles, GEOS tracking technology can be fitted on all kinds of craft (ships, aircraft, vehicles, space probes, etc.). A further advantage of this hi-tech solution is that it allows for remote reprogramming and calibration.
